

Elaine Hagy

Say Hello To Elaine Hagy. Elaine is a member of the CTHBPA board and she is very involved with the Welfare Benefit Trust. This trust helps horsemen and horsewomen to pay their medical, dental, prescriptions, vision bills.

Elaine and her husband Titus have been involved in racing since 1970, racing primarily in Charles Town, while traveling back and forth from Westminster, Maryland. In 1990 they bought a small farm in Jefferson County where they built a barn and a house. The Hagys invested in mares and stallions, breeding and raising West Virginia foals. Over the years their horses were trained by Mr. Hagy and raced mostly at the Charles Town Race Track. With a lot of hard work, Mrs. Hagy states: “our efforts have been fruitful”.

Mrs. Hagy has served on the HBPA Board of Directors for 12 years. One of her main endeavors has been to volunteer her time to the Welfare Benefit Trust (WBT) that assists horsemen and horsewomen to pay their medical, dental, prescription, and vision bills, and other benefits at no cost to them. Eligibility requires recipients to be a member of the HBPA and comply with the guidelines of the Welfare Benefit Trust. The revenue for this benefit comes from 25% of the revenue received by the HBPA. Elaine says, “Less days of racing would mean less revenue to take care of our own. “
